REVIEW FOR PAST SEASON

The Savannah cotton trade Journal contains the following: The naval stores season of 1904-1905 wound up with a mild pyrotechnic display at the Board of Trade on Friday with a jump of 2½c in the price of Turpentine, due to a demand for prompt delivery of spirits. Otherwise, the old season was one of well maintained values, with the demand uniform and the distribution including markets the world over.

While final statistics will come later on, those given out by the Board of Trade show what amounts of turpentine and rosins Savannah has received during the old year. This statement follows:

1904-5
Spts. Rosins.
Receipts since April 1.. 175,531 610,040
Exports since April 1.. 176,626 636,832
Foreign since April 1.. 71,066 223,477
New York since April 1.. 47,516 114,691
Sundries since April 1.. 58,044 298,664

1903-4
Spts. Rosins.
Receipts since April 1.. 193,647 650,838
Exports since April 1.. 188,353 752,276
Foreign since April 1.. 93,384 338,171
New York since April 1.. 35,658 87,553
Sundries since April 1.. 59,351 326,746

The total naval stores crop will never be known. An approximation to it may be had, however, when all receiving ports are heard from, which will probably be within a short time. This will be less than the actual crop, because of the large amounts of turpentine and rosins that go direct from the interior into consumption of which no account is obtained.

Experts tell us that we now have a ten years' supply of pine timber, and that soon thereafter the industry will be wiped out. Whether this comes on schedule or not, it is well known that many of the older of the trade are, like Cassius, tired of beholding, for the end has been forecasted in vain. The naval stores industry continues an important one, which we may expect to have for a long time to come.

SALVATION ARMY AT WORK IN INDIA

BEGAN OPERATIONS THERE IN 1882 AND IS NOW DOING VALIANT SERVICE.

India, with its vast population of three hundred million souls, presents undoubtedly the most interesting field in the world for purely missionary operations. It was on the 19th of September, 1882, that the first detachment of Salvationists landed in Bombay under the leadership of Major—now Commander—Tucker. There were but four in the party. And yet to meet them gathered a crowd of some twenty thousand persons.

The Social Relief Work of The Army has made considerable progress in India, where the need for such operations is most keenly felt. During the recent famine The Army expended about $100,000 in its Relief Works, and hundreds of orphan children, whose parents had perished, were gathered into our Industrial Schools, where they are being educated and trained for lives of future usefulness. In addition to its Orphanages, The Army has some 400 Day Schools, where some 12,000 children are being trained under Salvation teachers.

CLOSE OF THE NAVAL STORES YEAR

HIGHEST IN THE HISTORY OF THIRTY YEARS.

The following is from the Savannah Naval Stores Review for the week ending April 1: Spirits turpentine closed the naval stores year with a jump of three and a half cents a gallon, or $1.75 a cask, with 300 casks reported sold at 57 cents. Last year at this time there was nothing doing; the market was getting ready for a decline in values. The new naval stores year accordingly opens more brightly, so far as the immediate future, at least, is concerned, and it is quite apparent that the early supplies needed by American consumers must be paid for at good stiff prices. The American stocks are low, there having been considerable foreign and domestic shipments of late. Savannah stocks at the close of the year were 5,400 casks against 6,495 casks at the opening of the last April. The backward spring, too, is holding up receipts, which were only 2,771 casks at Savannah for March against 5,528 March, 1904. The domestic demand has begun briskly. The spring weather setting in in the north and west is confidently expected to bring with it a great call for the articles into which spirits turpentine enters. The general opinion seems to be that the early trade in this country will be very heavy, which would apparently mean a good demand for spirits for the month of April. The foreign markets are not reported active, though, as yet. In futures it is reported there was a small sale the past week at 48 cents for May-August. The total sales of futures are so insignificant, probably not exceeding 2,500 casks, that they carry absolutely no effect on the market hereafter. Gossip also has it that Jacksonville is to be an open market, and that the new movement of the factors and producers will not result in their making that and Fernandina closed points at which no other buyers than the producers themselves can get stuff. There is no authoritative statement to this effect yet, though it is also rumored that there will be a minimum price put on turpentine again and that the new company of the factors and producers will refuse to allow the market to go below that basis. It is the impression that something of this kind will be done, as was unsuccessfully attempted the past season. No definite announcements are looked for, though, for the next three or four weeks.

The officers of the National Transportation and Terminal Company report that their rolling stock has been increased sufficiently to meet all requirements of the trade, especially in Florida, and that from the volume of correspondence received the interest of producers in this method of handling spirits has been well aroused.

The Savannah factors express themselves as well pleased with the outlook for the coming twelve months. They are confident that the turpentine market cannot possibly go below 50 cents, and that the average range of values will be much higher than that. They base this belief on several things, the principal being their contention that the crop of 1905-06 will not show any increase, and probably a small decrease, that trade conditions the world over show a healthful state, and especially in the United States; and that the factors-producers company, backed up by the Turpentine Operators Association, will be a tower of strength to the market. They do not believe there can possibly be a repetition of the experience of 1904 when the minimum price was not maintained. The past season was a very profitable one to the factors and producers, and they evidently have a strong confidence that the coming one will excel all others in that respect.

Rosins closed the naval stores year last night showing the highest quotations known in thirty years. Every grade ranged considerably higher than the previous year, and for the top grades the values were such as would have been considered prohibitive of consumption a couple of years ago. The entire year as the readers of the Review are well aware, as been marked by exceedingly high prices for rosins, but by a remarkably well sustained demand for all grades, and by absence of the great fluctuations that marked the preceding season. Stocks at Savannah have been kept small during the entire year, and at the close yesterday were the smallest on record, but 17,758 barrels against 44,530 a year ago. The prices during the twelve months have ensured large profits to the producers and liberal commissions to the factors. All in all, the season of 1904-05 leaves little but pleasant recollections with the trade.

During the week ending last night there was a still further improvement in prices, the closing quotations, compared with those of the previous Friday night, showing advances of five cents on G, 7½ on F, 5 on E and D, and 7½ on C. A.

The net receipts of spirits at Savannah for the year were 171,532 casks, against 176,418 the previous year, and of rosins 601,179 barrels against 644,538. Savannah received in round figures, about one-third of the receipts coming to the ports. As has always been the case, there was a considerable quantity of spirits and rosins handled directly from the interior which never reached any of the primary markets. While the exact figures are not obtainable this year the crop is believed to have been somewhat in excess of that of the previous year.

This (Saturday) morning the market was posted firm at 57 cents. Receipts 114, sales 123. Rosins firm at an advance of 2½c on E. Receipts 251, sales 246.
